The Tulsa Street Railway carried 285,473 transfer passengers. If the transfer system did not exist, and these passengers were figured at 5c each, it would amount to $14,273.65. And, as stated in previous announcements, the Tulsa Street Railway taxes for 1915 were $11,574.97. The sum of these two items is $25,848.62, or an average of $497.08 a week saving to the people of Tulsa over the irresponsible competition which confines its operations solely to your ideal paved streets for which it pays absolutely nothing to conduct its business as a common carrier.

FIREMEN INJURED IN FRISCO WRECK

Misunderstanding of some sort caused one of the most serious wrecks of the year on the local Frisco division Friday morning in which an engineer was injured and several freight cars partly demolished with their contents. The accident happened about three miles from Sapulpa when the Frisco passenger train from Muskogee to Oklahoma City crashed into a string of idle freight cars.

Impact and the passengers thrown heavily from their chairs and sleepers. The engineer, H. L. Higby, jumped from the engine and suffered

Two of the freight cars were drawn from the track and cotton which they contained scattered about. This soon began to burn and the section men were forced to call upon the Sapulpa fire department for assistance. Traffic was delayed for several hours.

Twenty-six indictments before the grand jury on Friday, when the term of the jury expired under the law. The grand jury recommended, however, that another be called immediately for the purpose of investigating the allegations that certain public records had been concealed. No arrangements have been made following the other indictments, but many of them it is believed have to do with violations of the prohibitory laws.
